Nowadays young people know less about traditions and culture than in the past. What are the reasons for it? what can be done to improve this situation?

~~In~~ these days, the new generation is not keen on traditions and culture in comparison with the past. Although ~~traditions and culture~~ they play a vital role in future of each society, we see that they are going to be forgotten among the young people. There are many reasons s in this regard ~~which we review some of them~~ some of which will be reviewed in this essay.

Nowadays, our ~~the~~ life style is going to be changed. Modernity makes s people ~~to be~~ more busy than before compared with the past, so young people do not have enough time for paying attention to the traditions and culture. For example, many people have a hectic life and they must work more and more to improve their life level, so traditions and culture can be forgotten. I believe governments s should assume responsibility to address this issue. For instance, by with making a strong economy, we create jobs s for young people, so they can have free time to think about their past.

On the other hand, the new generation strongly believe that traditions and culture could not be useful or they don't agree with some parts of or the whole ~~hole~~ of that, they think we are living in a global village, thus we don't need ~~to~~ them. For example, in the west~~ern country~~ the meaning of family is different than that in the east ~~compared with eastern~~, so some young people in the eastern countries y like to have the same life. I think the education system can play a vital role in to acquainting the new generation with culture and traditions. They can hold ~~hole~~ events and festivals and demonstrate positive aspects of their culture and traditions.

As a conclusion, I strongly believe that each nation's future is positively influenced ~~adversely~~ affected by their culture and traditions, so everybody needs to be accustomed to ~~with~~ them.
