

Do you agree or disagree with the following statement? A person`s childhood years (the time from birth to twelve years of age) are the most important years of a person`s life. Use specific reasons and examples to support your answer.

People lives in some different periods of time such as babyhood, childhood and adulthood. They face facing many special events in each step of their life. In my opinion, childhood is the most important period in our life.

First of all, childhood years play are playing the most meaningful role time in creating to create the person`s personality. In this period childhood years, many things can be learned by family and teachers easily and deeply. Children can be affected easily and it is facile to change their negative behavior. All children follow and learn from their parents` behavior. For example, parents always teach their children how to behave toward with the older people. Furthermore, if people do not be are not -helped to indicate them the right way to go, it is very difficult to correct them when they are adult. It is better to teach them how to behave towards elders at childhood because when they grow up they are more likely to not obey their parents.

In the second place, psychologists believe that the most negative or positive behavior in adulthood is rooteds in childhood. For instance, if a person behaves aggressively, the specialist tries ~~try~~ to find the reasons in babyhood and childhood. In our childhood, we are extremely protected by our mother and father, so we do not make decisions on our own, so ~~so~~, what they decide for us will affect our life in the future. The way parents behave towards each other in front of their ir children will affect them too. Children consider their parents ~~as~~ a model for themselves.

In conclusion, childhood is the most important stage in our life as long as we can find most of the reasons of our behaviors in childhood. Parents play an important role in a child`s life in the future as they are an example/pattern a model for their children.