

Agree/Disagree

People spend too much time studying and working and not enough time with their families.

Modern life provides people with ~~a~~ numerous advantages but not out of requirements obviously. Individuals can ~~be~~ prospered these days only by the clear-cut means. They can pursue their goals ~~th~~rough sheer hard work and study, which demands an immense time going far ~~in~~ ~~to~~ limiting ~~thei~~r family gatherings.

I think human beings have been ~~en~~slaved by these chaffy images of self-realization. They picture ~~the~~ life in wrong ways. Considering a simple example of a ~~contemporary today's~~ person who allocates ~~the a~~ majority of his or her time to study or work with the self-actualization fantasy while he/she cannot meet ~~s~~ the basic needs of relations and involvement especially with ~~the most~~ fundamental ~~and~~ constructive unit of societies, ~~that is, I mean the~~ family.

It will be worse when this poor guy who dreams about the jocose fantasy found him or herself attempting to gain some financial aim through some compulsory methods, an atrocious expression of ~~survival survive~~.

Moreover, it seems Instruments ~~have taken the place of goals capture-~~ ~~the goals place~~. Let us assume this fantasy a truth. Every individual should pass this way to success. It means they have to do something to gain something else. But to what extent? People start their study in childhood and normally they will finish it when they pass one ~~point~~ third of their ~~only-one~~ life. Unfortunately I can remember the pressure of this study as a task without any feeling of doing that to actuate myself. After that every person will go on the study or find a job to be ~~occupied attended~~ for the next one third. They work harder and harder. But how many of these people remember why they are working or studying? After a while they work for work, nothing more. These processes consume their time and even change their pure attitudes toward many things, their life, their goals and even their connections, ~~in the~~ same way ~~as~~ their family's relations.

To ~~sum some~~ up, it will be useful to look at the inventory of life and evaluate the activities among that considering the time consuming and the goal persuasion. From ~~in~~ my point of view many things~~s~~ have been victimized by work and study, like family gatherings.
