

In many countries children engaged in some kind of paid work. Some people regard this as completely wrong, while others consider it as valuable work experience, important for learning and taking responsibility.

What are your opinions on this?

Child labor is totally wrong. In an age when children need their time playing and training, When they are forced to work they are damaged psychologically and some physically hard work ~~hard~~ to make the child physically do not have good growth.

Some derelict family and miss managed like drug addicted parents or lose one of them need money so they are forced to send their children to work for this kind of problems, the government and social institutions requires should help this families economical and spiritual, so that they can have a better life. Other than they didn't need to send their children for working.

Research findings show that social factors such as input suppliers such as family and school failure, poverty, street children, families and their inability to adapt to the lifestyle in big cities, pollution and urban fringe areas being harmful, lack of supervision the organization responsible enough, and incorrect patterns of interaction between citizens and street children, all hands have the phenomenon of street children (who are mostly street children), continue to be a problem impassable in many large cities truly shine.
