

Some people feel that entertainers (e.g. film stars, pop musicians or sports stars) are paid too much money.

Do you agree or disagree?

Which other types of job should be highly paid?

I concur with this view saying stars are paid too much money. Especially in comparison with many other occupations that need either profession, knowledge or ability like nursing, teaching or judgment which both work hard~~ly~~ and have major main influences on human society.

On the other hand, there are many people saying stars' the career period of stars professional career is too short and they pale with time by time when younger and far more attractive stars appear. Although it's totally true, this reason cannot justify their super/hugeunreachable salaries. How many years must a nurse must work to gain money that is are paid to an actor for a fifteen-minutes role played in a movie?

Moreover, the most celebrities are famous because of their appearance. They neither have an especial ability nor admirable adorable profession and in fact they are paid for their face and their body style. Hence, they are fantastic goals for beauty products factories who. ~~The factories~~ spend huge budgets ~~to using use~~ stars in their commercial and then they pretend every ~~one-one~~ can be famous and rich ~~by with~~ using their products. It is one of the most important reasons for stars' high payments ~~so mush pay~~.

In spite of this, we cannot ignore stars' influences on business that they are involved in. For instance, playing a role by a specific celebrity can make a movie successful with a huge box-office. So many fans and audiences who follow their stars and spend so much money ~~for~~ watching them can enrich every producer. Thus, It's needless to say, the stars suppose higher wage.

In conclusion, I think, it's not fair that some people are paid so much and some others must work hardly for their life time and in the end there isn't enough money even for a middle quality life. ~~Some~~ professionals making significant contributions to society should be better paid and much appreciated.
