

Do you agree or disagree with the following statement?

Because the world is changing so quickly, people now are less happy or less satisfied with their lives than people were in the past.

Use specific reasons and examples to support your answer.

Nowadays, it is commonly accepted that technology has had a great impact on people's life and has made it far easier than two decades before. However, there are people who argue humans are not as happy as they used to be in the past and that people had more tranquility. My conjecture is that despite this belief, mankind is more apt to obtain happiness in modern times than before due to the following reasons.

First and foremost, for most, being healthy is a fundamental requirement for being happy. Although there are still diseases that mankind is was unable to find any cure for them, but we, humans have acquired great successes in this field. For example, a death caused by common cold sounds unusual and unacceptable which was something prevalent before the discovery invention of antibiotics which made a great change in the world.

Another fact that should be taken into in to the consideration is that development in transportation has enhanced the quality of human beings's life. For instance, relatives can visit each other in far-distancedistant countries. In addition, the variety of dishes a person can have in his life has extended because of fast and easy shipments, or an individual is able to donate food or other commodities/goods stuff to people in need even in overseas countries.

Finally yet importantly, the immense impact of changes caused by technology is amenities. Current amenities such as electricity and the Internet have boosted human's life style. In modern times, people are able to achieve their goals and accomplish their works in more pace. The Internet has given every one an access to education. People can learn whatever they want to with just putting some effort and time in any field. Statistics show that educated individuals are more likely to achieve economic success.

In conclusion, I'm convinced changes in the of world caused by technology bring more means to achieve happiness and satisfaction. However, I have to admit that having more means to achieve an accomplishment matter doesn't necessarily translate into end up obtaining it.
