

Nowadays education has a significant impact on our lives because it plays an important role in what we will acquire in future. Some people believe that just good students should study in higher education. ~~However, ,however,~~ others consider that higher education should be available to all students. In my estimation, all students should have the right to continue their study, notably in higher education for some important reasons among which are: human rights, and progress/improvement.

First and foremost, education is one of the basic human rights. For example, in many countries like my country there is a law that says all people in the country have a right to study and get free education. All students can continue their education in the highest level that they can. I have felt the importance of higher education when I have immigrated to the U.S, where people enjoy it has the best education system in the world.

As far as I mentioned, education is a the basic human rights. Moreover, More-over, the higher education helps people to improve in their personal lives and this improvement leads to people developing their country. For instance, when I ~~have~~ moved to the United States, I ~~have~~ found out that higher education is available for all students who are interested and the more you learn, the more useful you can be ~~useful~~. They can learn more knowledge and use that to develop their society.

In sum, education, particularly higher education is quite/very valuable in our lives and should be available for all students ~~not just because not only is~~ it it is a right for all people, but also it is helpful for developing countries and the world. I am fully convinced that all of the students in the world should have opportunity to study in the highest level that they are interested in.
