Being a celebrity- such as a famous film star or sports personality- bring some problems as well as benefits.

Do you think that being a celebrity brings more benefits or more problems?

Nowadays, famous people and athletes experience a different life style in comparison with the past since there are more attention to their private life, habits and leisure by individuals. This trend attitude has brought about brings some advantages besides its drawbacks to well-known persons's lives life.

Being a famous person, firstly, has some benefits. The majority of well-known individuals have an affluent life, since they have special abilities and people are quite enthusiastic to watch them in TV or stadiums, so they are well paid by their employers. In addition, they gain a lot of respect in society and most of their fans trust on them, hence doing trade and business is quite easy for them/celebrities. In my country, for instance, most of soccer players run their restaurants s or conduct luxury building construction, so they can earn enormous money besides their main activities.

On the other hand, being a celebrity has/involves have its own disadvantages. Many of people with high reputation suffer from lack of privacy. Simply put, as people are really eager to gain information about their life style, it will bring many problems for both their families and private aspects of their life. In addition, many of these celebrities are stressed ed out because their occupations are stressful. For instance, most of Hollywood superstars endure from drug abuse, as they are always under supervision by both their fans and agents.

As a conclusion, I strongly believe that although fame (being a very famous person among people) has its own drawbacks, it has also many benefits which outweigh its disadvantages. A superstar can enjoy from this reputation and make a successful life and business by being able to manage this reputation.
