

Subject: Every year several languages die out. Some people think that this is not important because life will be easier if there are fewer languages in the world. To what extent ~~td~~ do you agree or disagree with this opinion?

One of the biggest concerns in the universe which is becoming increasingly common is that a lot of different languages die out per annum. In this regard, in order to some opponents and proponents have a variety of opinions about the advantages and drawbacks ~~draw-backs~~ of this issue.

The obvious argument in its favor is that if we have a few languages in the world we can learn them all ~~many of them~~ also ~~with decreasing the figure of it~~, the people who se language has disappeared ~~has deleted their languages~~ should be required to speak with an international one kind and the young people living in those countries can progress in their speaking skill and can make connection with a lot of people living in other countries. "The better connection with other people the higher status in societal life".

On the other hand, the opponents believe that vanishing of punishing cultures and ancient methods are due to extermination ~~deleting of~~ languages. ~~in~~ In addition, the old people in these countries can't adapt themselves ~~with~~ to this condition. Furthermore, they can't convey their experiences to young people. Hence, Nevertheless it has damaging consequences on the future of these countries.

According to these reasons, I feel much obliged to conclude that today's with the advent of progressing technologies, ~~and coming~~ new tools and applications for making connection with other people we must learn an international language but we mustn't forget our culture and our old conventions.
