

Some people think that it is better to educate boys and girls in separate school. Others, however, believe that girls and boys benefit more from attending mixed schools. Discuss both views and give your own opinion.

Except some countries that just have single-sex schools and the people have no choice but are inevitable to send their children there, in other countries it is up to people how to decide about this issue which is controversial between educationalists and psychologists.

Some educationalists say single-sex schools are more beneficial due to the features they have. They, according to their experiences, declare that the students in these schools are more concentrated on their studies because the matters which distract them are less in comparison to those in mixed-sex schools. Furthermore, it has barely been seen that some problems such as bullying, having an attitude of superiority and disrupting the classroom existed in single-sex school, especially in female-gender schools where girls are so vulnerable, that would be better to communicate with their same gender.

On the contrary, psychologists insist on the advantages of mixed-sex schools. For instance, attending the mixed-sex schools, would not only would it be an invaluable opportunity for students to gain a variety of social skills about the opposite sex, but also it could be a stepping stone for encountering a real society which where contains both genders. A major plus point is that they will develop in the various aspects of personality characteristic so that their perception of communication and society will be deeply different from that of the other gender counterparts their peers in single-sex schools.

In conclusion, if the educationalists with the cooperation of psychologists plan an extensive curriculum which considers the predictable problems in mixed-sex schools and how to deal dealing with those, certainly, despite a few problems with the mixed-sex schools, its advantages clearly outweigh its downsides.
