

Due to the development and rapid expansion of supermarket in some countries, many small, local businesses are unable to compete. Some people think that the closure of local business will bring about the death of local communities.

To what extent do you agree or disagree?

Despite development of supermarkets, mini supermarkets have disappeared. Although it is predictable for today's trade/trading, it is somewhat unfair for local businesses. Not only does it lead to close local business/trade, but it also takes both unemployment and destroying local communities.

Nowadays, because of the speed of life, people tend to buy all their needs in a short time. Moreover, due to hectic life style, traffic jams and also long distances that people facing in modern lives, they want to do all their shopping in one place. In addition, people refer to places where they and their family feel relax. Since in malls and supermarkets, there are places that/where their children can play in it.

In spite of a large population who/that are present there, people have tendency to purchase/buy their necessities from there because they sell their items/goods with less price. To put it simply way, inasmuch/while supermarkets buy their products in large quantities from producers/merchant, companies give them some offers to sell their products to consumer with less prices.

On the other hand, I really do not know what we should do to avoid destroying/ the destruction of small businesses, so owners of small/local businesses should be coordinated. In addition, local communities could not harness the development of these kinds of businesses. In the other words, they should adopt some solutions. For example, they obtained some of the products' representations.

In conclusion, the existence of trading in large quantity such as supermarkets is inevitable in modern society. In addition, I concur with that this is unequal/ inequitable rivalry and also leads to destroying local business.
