

Living in an apartment instead of university dormitory has advantages and disadvantages. Discuss some of the advantages and disadvantages of apartment living, and then defend your preference.

Since everybody knows that there are many options for university students who want to live in an apartment or dormitory. Today some people have mixed views on whether it has advantages or disadvantages. Based on some evidence, I choose an apartment for living.

It is clear that when you select the individual living in an apartment, you get many benefits, by which I mean there are many reasons which people can adapt adopt in order to reduce many personal hazards, one of which is about learning.

Here I am referring to some examples, by renting an apartment during studying study's period in university, you learn, how you can can you handle your budget or cost, how you can can you manage your facilities that you need. Totally you learn many any things in this way.

Another reason goes to planning without which .-Without any planning the result of this activity could be disastrous and leads to a situation which satisfies no-one. Thus with this way, you learn about planning.

Psychologically, In psychological terms of psychologists, this situation improves your ability related to an autonomously lifestyle, with little without any isolation atmosphere or policiesy which are defined by another person that you must follow it, whereas a sense of loneliness alone could be flourish as well.

Everyone knows that a university dormitory has many advantages. Providing facilities such as, transporting-cooking- best library for studying- interaction with various people- knowing about diverse cultures. Furthermore, distance is near to your accommodation

Even though there are many advantages to dormitory living, I would prefer to live in an the apartment because you learn many things with a lot of problems or obstacles that you must resolve it. If you do this work, you can stay on your feet and it brings a better performance for you.

Taking everything into consideration, not only should we expect from officials or family, but we should also develop a condition in which people learn to encounter with any problems and resolving it. To put it simply, it has many positive effects on your life style, last but not least, this situation makes them serious and independent about their goal .