

Families who send their children to private schools should not be required to pay taxes that support the estate education system.

To what extent do you agree or disagree with this statement.

The tax that inhabitants/citizens have to pay has have sparked a heated debate between authorities of in each society. For instance, there is a controversial issue between governmental figures with regard to parents who send their offspring/charges to private schools. Some figures assume that they should pay certain sums of money as a tax to support estate schools and to increase the quality of poor students's condition at school. However, some others claim that this is not a fair law.

Some individuals who are frowning upon paying tax to public schoolss believe that in this way families are discouraged to send their children to into private studying places. In addition, reducing the number of quantities of students at such places these kinds of schools leadss their owners to become completely bankrupt. Furthermore, families assume that not only is this responsibility incumbent on the government, but also they should allocate enormous amounts of budgets to make education more qualified and appealing to children. The more concentratione on education, the more successful future society.

Some parents who send their children to private schools are not that much wealthy and just pay a lot of attention to studying educating their charges, hence we cannot judge people's economic condition based on these sorts of criteria. Some members of the public who support paying tax assume that in this way schools' principals can equip facilitate studying places much more efficiently beneficial. If we assisted contributed the authorities in implementing to implement a more suitable and convenient places to pupils as their studying places, future society would be consist of several individuals with numerous breakthrough achievements in different fields of study.

On the whole, most of the people, myself included, do not agree with the given statement and think that the government should tackle this issue more attentively.