

Nowadays many young people leave home at an early age to either study or work in another city. Do you think this has more advantages or disadvantages for young people? Support your point of view with reasons and examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Experiencing some level of independency has become more common among the young generation in order to follow~~ing~~ their passions. Whilst I tend to agree that this trend ~~have~~~~has~~ drawbacks, I strongly concede that from a broader point of view, it could be way more beneficial.

Those frowning upon leaving home at ~~a~~ ~~the~~ young age consider the high risk of making life-changing (يا جيران ناڤڤير؟) mistakes as its major consequence due to the lack of experience. Being immature might result in making uninformed choices which could ~~have~~ negatively affect their both personal life ~~and as well as~~ their career. For instance, homesickness-as an unavoidable side effect of living far from home especially among ~~the~~ youth- might contribute to short~~ly~~ unhealthy~~ly~~ emotional relationships~~s~~ without any supervision from their parents. Such activities could aggravate their mental condition and result in addiction or even suicide. Moreover, despite the great sense of having ~~your own self-~~income by working right after graduation from high school, these young workers are wasting their best years of ~~their~~ life just applying themselves in ~~futureless~~ demanding positions ~~without prospect~~ like being a waitress rather than having tertiary education.

However, independency could provide a brilliant opportunity for youngsters to develop their skills and reach a high self-knowledge in that they are being forced to manage miscellaneous tasks from doing dull chores to handle their budget parallel to developing their social communications in unfamiliar environments. What is more, not only ~~does~~~~would~~ this life style ~~would~~ contribute to maturity, such people ~~would be~~ ~~are~~ more likely to appreciate and grab chances which plays a major role in their ~~successions~~~~success~~. Despite the less free time they have compared to their counterparts who live with their parents, they are able to perform different responsibilities simultaneously with higher productivity specifically in stressful situations.

In brief, although starting an independent life at ~~a~~ young age might be overwhelming and emotionally heart-breaking at some points, as a new step to adulthood it ~~is~~ completely worth ~~tryingto~~~~try~~. Parents should encourage their kids to accept this risk and assist them so that they could take ~~fully~~ advantage of this golden period of their life journey.