Nowadays the way many people interact with each other has changed because of technology. In what ways has technology affected the types of relationships people make ? has is become a positive or negative development ?

As one of the most effective impacts of technology, revolution in individuals' way of communication can be mentioned. People are not interacting with each other the way they used to. They communicate through different applications on their mobile phones and see each other online. This development can be considered both negative and positive.

To begin with, I prefer to start with the positive impact of technology in communication. These days people can easily get in touch with friends and family who live miles apart which was so different in the past. The only way they could contact their loved ones in foreign countries, was to send letters , while nowadays thanks to Face time and other mobile phone applications, they can easily video chat with each other. Therefore, people feel close to each other despite the distance. Furthermore, communication has become much faster and easier. Text messages, voice messages, photos and videos could be transferred in less than a minute.

On the other hand, some people believe that this technological development has made relationships colder. For instance, people do not miss each other that much as they are in touch with each other through social networks. They see each other's photos and chat online, so the need of face to face communication will be reduced/hence the reduction in face to face communication. Moreover, individuals have become so too obsessed with technology that they even miss the time they are physically with each other.

To conclude, in my opinion, technology must be used in its best way. Although it makes us closer to the ones who are far away, it could make us far apart from the ones who are next to us.
