

The Question

Some people like to travel with a companion. Other people prefer to travel alone. Which do you prefer? Use specific reasons and examples to support your choice (from the Official TOEFL Guide).

These days tourism is more popular than ever, and everyone has their own style of travel. While there are some advantages to both traveling alone or with the companion, I believe that it is more beneficial to travel in the latter method (with companion) due to the fact that it's more economical and it would be more fun when you travel with your friends.

To begin with, taking a trip with a companion is more economical than vacationing alone. The cost of the trip is very important. ~~Because,~~ because when you're traveling with your friends the budget will split among them. Usually, you can save your money for booking a hotel, ~~a~~ public transportation or even getting foods and spending your money for other entertainments such as a museum or the theater. Recently, I went to turkey with my mates. We took a tour for 5-five days in Istanbul. The lease for one bedroom is 100 dollars per day. Since we ~~are-were~~ 3-three people, the hotel gave us 3-three rooms which each cost in which each room has a price 70 dollars per day. In addition, we had ~~a~~ free transportation. As such, we saved 30 dollars and spent it on an amusement park and /as well as a restaurant.

Furthermore, traveling in ~~the~~ groups could be more fun especially, when you travel with people who like you the most. ~~Since~~ since not only do you know each other, but also you would like spending time together. Moreover, traveling alone could sometimes be quite ~~be~~ dangerous. ~~An alone a~~ alone person can be seen as intimidating but, if you go sightseeing seen in a pair, there could be more fun and people can trust you more easily. As an illustration, two years ago, ~~I and my girlfriend-future wife and I~~ decided to go to South Africa. We've been there about two weeks since. ~~Since,~~ we took a tour with each other, people treated us warmly. The hotel ~~leased~~ gave us a Toyota Corolla. All of this would happen due to the fact that we traveled ed in a pair.

In conclusion, I strongly believe that vacationing with a companion could save your money and create wonderful memories. People would treat you better and you enjoy your holiday.