People attend college or university for many different reasons (for example, new experience, career preparations, increased knowledge). Why do you think people attend college or university? Use specific reasons and examples to support your answer.

The craving for learning and increasing ~~the~~ knowledge is an innate part of each human being. Since~~,~~ we have been children,~~he was a child~~, we have tried to make new discoveries/to find out new things and when we ~~he~~ grow~~ing~~ up this desire is ~~has~~ boost~~ed~~ as well. I opine the most tangible reason for attending college or university is to feed this hunger.

A University degree ~~is~~ influenc~~es~~~~ing,~~ in the first place~~,~~ your social position, and ~~the~~ second~~ly~~, your future job's salary.

The first thing/point is that anyone would think about going to college ~~is~~ to get a higher level of education.
The University period~~,~~ not only ~~flourishes~~ helps your hidden talents flourish, but also educates you in experiential/empirical information about the field of your future career.
The first priority in ~~to~~ finding an appropriate job is to earn your livelihood. As much as you use this knowledge, and apply yourself, you'll have more chance to find a better position with better salary and perks.

A University degree directly influences your social position. It could be in your relationships, or your level of life.
~~As~~ since your entrance, probably you are able to find new friends who have a parallel way of thinking or targets as you for their lives.
So, you can have friends with better quality, and your peers can understand your situation a bit easier so you can ~~make~~ establish/develop ~~more~~ strong~~er~~ relationships with them.

It's obvious that having relationships with educated people has positive effects. For example a good partner for your life.
 Unfortunately in my country, one of the reasons ~~of~~ which boys like to go to university is military service, which is forced. They want to postpone it for at least ~~4~~ four years and make it easier than it is.

All in all, attending university is not the only choice for life or work, and anyone has their ~~his or her~~ own reason for it, but it would be a great experience, if you can afford it!
