

Choosing the place for living has always been an issue for human beings. Some people pay more attention to their quality of life, whereas others may intend to be watchful of their expenses! People, generally, do a cost-benefit analysis and eventually come to the decision of selecting a house or an apartment for settling. Each option has its own upsides and downsides and there are plenty of arguments on this subject. Being more comfortable in a house, I, personally, would select the house choice.

When talking of the issues of living in a house, the main problem to be tackled is its expenses(costs). To put it simply, the amount of money you must invest ~~on~~in a house, is much bigger than that of an apartment. Cleaning a house is another problem that we should deal with ~~it~~, since a house is definitely larger than an apartment.

On the flip side, there are several benefits attributed to living in a house, for instance: a more relaxed atmosphere, more independence, more comfortable rooms and more convenience and availability, to name but a few. Wisely thinking, it could be stated that, one can gain higher degrees of calmness and life quality, when living in a house. Furthermore, we can add a spacious yard for children to play in, to the above list.

In conclusion, what could not be ignored is that, living in a house or an apartment has positive and negative elements. People's preferences differ and everybody decides based on their his/her own criteria. Although the majority may choose to live in a house, they may not be able to afford it! That is why most people are settled in apartments nowadays, rather than houses. A house life, brings decent life quality, but at the same time, it costs a fortune for people, nonetheless.
