Mobile phones and the internet have made it easier to stay in contact with other people. However, as a lot of time is spent using telephones and computers. There is less face-to-face contact and direst communication. Is the growing use of communications technology a positive or a negative development for society?

There is a no doubt that the internet has become an inevitable part of our life, affecting all aspects of our daily routine ranging from shopping to educating and even managing and governing. However, whether this has had productive effect on us through providing plenty of information for people or it has created trouble for mankind has turned into heated debate among people in recent. Despite several negative advertisements against this vital point, I am to a huge extent an advocated of it.

From my standpoint, the internet make it easier our life through fast pace of life and it can be time and money manager. Hence, we can deal with most of our essential tasks with no anxiety. A downside of the internet, joining people to virtual life, it might be has some drawbacks for society. Multi facing trend will grow in social networking sites and artful people can tricks and achieve their goals. This is not healthy environment for other people.

Another positive side, Reducing our over-stress issues and tasks. For instance, E-learning education style is the huge reward for you but it has drawback, you deprive of campus and workshop and interacting with professors and other classmates in real world.

To put it simply, I tend to think there is certainly some truth in both perspective but Modern era required dynamic people and creative mind.
