

Some people warn that the era of the silver screen is coming to an end and that people will eventually lose interest in going to the cinema.

Do you agree or disagree with this view?

Give reasons for your answer and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Cinema or motion picture is the art of moving images. A visual medium that tells stories and exposes reality. Television is a mass media-medium for entertainment education, news, politics, gossip and advertising.

Some people warn that the era of the silver screen is coming to an end and that people will eventually lose interest in going to the cinema. This essay will discuss both sides of this issue.

Some people believe that, the invention of the silver screen has revolutionized the cinema. People go to cinema less often than they used to.

In my opinion going to cinema is not less due to high quality and sound playback.

~~In on~~ on the one hand, when people watching ~~dvd~~ DVD's in their home they can rest on their sofa beside their family and ~~watching~~ eating their favorite junk food. It can be cheaper for a big family. Also they can choose their own subtitles.

~~In on the~~ on the other hand, watching movies s in cinema is more attractive first because of sound quality and second image quality. ~~As you know~~ clearly/obviously democracy cytic is an arrangement ~~organized~~ according to the principle that everyone has the right to be involved in making decisions. Cinema is pure democracy ~~due to~~ because people decide ~~on~~ by themselves to go to the cinema and sitting ~~on in a~~ in a cinema seat/chair. Also it is very exciting to see the movie with other people for example if people are watching a funny movie, everyone is either laughing or crying. In these days, we can see cinema become more advanced also you can see the movie now at your local multiplex cinema.

In conclusion, It seems that we are enjoying both the cinema and TV. I would say that people will never stop going to cinema and they will watch ~~dvd~~ DVDs as well.