

Success in formal “pen and paper” examinations is often seen to be a sign of intelligence. to what extent do you agree with the view that formal examinations measure intelligence? How can students be assessed?

Nowadays examination is a common method to recognize people’s knowledge in the education system in the whole world. Also, it is a general way for improvement steps by steps. In this essay, ~~we are~~ I will be discussing this issue in more depth which shows whether exams can be a justified reason for being intelligent or not.

First, ~~in~~ during a quiz, all candidates will face same types of questions for instance multiple choices or short answer, with the same time and materials for studying. It is not a satisfactory response because some factors such as anxiety, sickness or even sleep disorder ~~have~~ happened, so they may to gain ~~have not giant~~ sufficient Scores.

Assessment/evaluation of students ~~The investigation~~ should not be limited ~~devoted~~ to exams only because tests ~~had been~~ can be memorized or students might cheat ~~cheated by students~~. for this reason, it is unfair to label ~~knowing~~ them as smart ~~humanity~~.

Furthermore, not only ~~do are~~ the applicants ~~examined~~ tested, but also they are given the chance to demonstrate their abilities. It is necessary to introduced ~~tests~~ in different parts similar to oral or teamwork and presentation in public and not just written styles.

A reason which convinces me to reject this method is that by answering a few ~~some~~ questions, do we understand whether ~~that~~ someone is smart or not? In many aspects, Humans are classified as capable or as weak.

In conclusion, students should remember the concepts and explain clearly to others in groups until-so that they become ready for exams and then assessment would be fairly. It is better to elaborate each ability in each person and analyze humans according to some common methods. Only then will we ~~will~~ see their motivation and growth instead of their fear against exams.
