

● Nowadays, people living in large cities face many problems in their daily lives. What are these problems? Do you think the government should encourage people to move to smaller towns?

In today's modern focused world , in other words , the 21st century , the lifestyle of people ~~are-is~~ involved in a controversial issued which causes them ~~difficulty to make their life difficult~~. This essay will discuss what the problems are , and it will then address the question of whether or not inhabitants should be urged to immigrate to rural areas and outskirts of cities .

It is inevitable that overpopulation brings about severe issues into bustling metropolises , and capital city of countries . ~~it would appear~~ several significant problems would appear for residents . Firstly, extending the volume of traffic which causes people not to have sufficient time for communicating with each other ,or extra activities for improving the quality of their life . secondly , air pollution and ecological crises , both of those phenomena have negative influence on individuals' health . statistics have demonstrated ~~that the~~ rise in amount the number of heart problems in urban areas is unpromising in comparison with rural areas . Finally , according to prohibitive food miles , accommodation rental , cost of energy consumption and taxation stem from urban living , those make citizens ~~to~~ work more and more for affording to afford the expenses , as a result , they have struggled for survival . this causes their daily lives to suffer from this disorder .

There is no doubt that quality of both rural and smaller town living outweighs urban living , but a major segment of those areas ~~are-is~~ deprived in terms of facilities , in consequences , officials in the administration should ~~impose~~ introduce tax deduction and some subsidies for inhabiting ~~in~~ rural areas instead of big cities . another efficient ~~cy~~ remedy is that it is better for people to be encouraged for immigrating to the outskirts of big cities ~~with by~~ transferring industrial zones ~~to~~ there which considerably leads ~~considerably to~~ job opportunities ~~to for~~ immigrants and vulnerable ones .

Overall, it seems advisable that by enhancing infrastructure in smaller towns , people aspire to some extent attending rural areas . Moreover , there is a win – win situation for both themselves and governments .
