

● Some people believe school children should be given multiple short vacations, while others believe they should get one long vacation. Give the advantages of both and express your own point of view.

The ~~process-concept~~ of holidays is an integral part of children's education. A number of people agree children should be ~~in-on the-a rather~~ long term Holiday-~~to-some extent~~. However, some believe that ~~it-they~~ had better be shorter. We will consider both sides of discussion in this essay.

On the one hand, those who support short vacations cite the potential benefits that those bring to children-. One of which is to lessen the risk of ~~children~~ being ~~children~~ far away schools, for instance, annual holidays in the USA's schools are merely 15 days which contribute to learners ~~do-not~~ unconsciously ~~being disadvantaged take-an-educational-toll-on by~~ this situation ~~by-fora~~ lack of being at school, and forgetting their lessons ~~in~~ over-time. Another argument is emotional relationships that pupils are used to having with their peers there. This ~~is~~ ~~considereds-as~~ a remarkable role in ~~upbringing up~~ and educating a child, ~~due-tobecause he who might~~ aspires to ~~has-have~~ some friends at school that long-term vacation causes ~~his-him~~ to be deprived.

By contrast, opponents ~~of this view~~ point out that short-term vacations give insufficient time to children. It is not advisable, or even ~~undermining-deleterious to~~ the children's wellbeing in their holidays. Moreover, critics of multiple short vacations also highlight the difficulty in ~~concentrating helping~~ students ~~concentrate~~ on their courses symptomatic of their discontinuous education. Finally, it must be said that ~~device-devising~~ a plan for going on a trip needs adequate opportunity; as a result, ever-rising amounts of time of the ~~time~~ off is the best option to ~~be-fulfilled~~ this function by students' parents.

In conclusion, I would tend to side with the opponents of multiple short vacations. It seems to be unreasonable to lose the golden time in pupils' life ~~till-so that~~ they could travel more long-time, without any educationg during the corresponding period. It will ~~impulsively-unwittingly~~ cause academic underperformance.
