Some people think that work is the most important thing in people's life. Without the success of a career, life becomes s meaningless. To what extent do you agree or disagree?

In Today's world, including working hard, endeavor and competition, and people have particular regard to-for achieving more success. although some people think that work is a substantial affair, that is not all. Nevertheless, work plays an important roles in one's life .success in working is the most pivotal matter as is motivation.

First and foremost, success varies from anyone's point of view. some people believe that finding a good job helps them to succeedss them. From their point of view, Prosperity of a career relies on considerable amounts of money, hence they believe a meaningless life is-occurredoccurs as they lose their deposit account.

On the other hand, for some, success in jobs is undefined. they think life has a constant trajectory that one day ends, neither-whether they want to continue or not.

They were overwhelmed by their routine lifes-lives . despite of being dissatisfied, they do not try to make better-their life better.

To sum up,there is no doubt that ones-people are affected by their attitudes toward lifes. success can be satisfaction with doing positive things.
