

In the past when a student did a university degree, they tended to study in their own country. Nowadays, they have more opportunity to study abroad. What are the advantages and disadvantages of this development?

Improvements in transportation systems worldwide and dawn of ~~the~~ internet, used ~~in to~~ ~~communicate~~communication, have had a great influence on the people's lifestyle. One of the results is the simplification of going abroad for students to continue their learning path. This migration, which could be ~~temporal~~temporary or permanent has some negative and positive sides ~~s~~ that this paper is going to illuminate both ~~aspects of the issue~~.

One of the main benefits of traveling abroad is to ~~become~~get into a direct relation with the prominent tutors in the field of study and to build an influential and strong bond with lots of other relevant groups, just like professors in other faculties or dominant persons in the industry that support you in the future, hence your better opportunities for your future professional life. In addition to above, leaving abroad and far away from your own family could build you as an independent personage by which you could make decisions s on his-your own and to lead properly his-your emotions and as a result you could be trusted more in ~~the~~ society.

However, this migration could have some downsides. While you get detached from your own family, it could make you somehow nervous and anxious, resulting in a ~~_great descent~~ considerable decrease in your performance, hence you further problems with the university. Although many believe that ~~the~~ internet could put family members in connection, it should be emphasized that keeping in direct touch is a fact that could not be substituted.

In conclusion, going abroad has dramatically ~~enhanced~~ become widespread during recent decades which had both pros and cons, but if one manages the negative sides ~~he one~~ could experience its ~~extravagant~~ positive outcomes.
