

It is said that “not everything that is learned is contained in book” compare and contrast knowledge gained from experience with knowledge gained from books. in your opinion which source is more important? Why?

All findings about ~~peoples'~~ people's achievements and social training techniques for obtaining necessary experiences in their lives indicates that both outlines of studying as formal education and other experimental ways make them to ~~become~~ aware of social facts and their ability and capacity about how they can get along with most of ~~issues~~ frequently encountered ~~with~~. But I state that the second way of training has become more vital and applying considering recent decades' occasions. However, there has always ~~have~~ been some adverse look ~~view~~ in these areas.

This is undeniable that spending a great deal of times at schools for acquiring more new moderate and updated information are the most significant issue to which each family pay attention too much. For instance there have already been several skills that just by academic training they are more likely for children to be attained while they are teenagers or entering into adolescent ages. at the next period of their lives' process these sorts of educating won't never be profitable and helpful with their professional and private future life.

Now that they have been equipped with the scientific and knowledge weapon some other extra required experiments ~~experience~~ should be gained in communicating with different individuals so that they can improve their social reactions to deal with all aspects of life such as their proficiency and qualification for looking for a highly-positioned occupation, achieving self-confidence and self-acceptance, also keeping calmness to overcome whole of difficulties, strengthening their talents in social community behavior as a tactful and respectful manner, simultaneously. We should bear in mind that loving others and accompanying them would never be taught in any lessons during academic training unlike ~~unless~~ all these will be learned and earned through passing public living courses.

Subsequently, as I argued before, definitely these two methods are the main and key guidelines for people for leaving behind future ~~probable~~ future related issues as well ~~much~~ as possible. but certainly what makes the differences between an experienced man with inexperienced one is absolutely their socialized individualities which has strongly been affected by the society surrounding them and their abundant discoveries from their respective around environment.
