As crimes are one of the main subjects of each government program, they always are looking for a way to reduce it. Capital punishment not only stops people committing offences, but also is a form of revenge for those who lost their family in this way; moreover, offenders are not able to pose a threat to others.

On the other hand, there are those who subscribe the view that capital punishment is not a good deterrent and they have their reasons, one of which is we have no right to take another human's life, for instance, there are always mistakes in judgement that lead to executing innocent people. Besides, in spite of public viewpoint, statistics shows that severely punishment does not reduce crime rate in metropolitans.

All in all, we are not able to decide for other's life, capital punishment the more make fear of committing crimes in criminals, the more making violent in a society over time.
