

People attend school for many different reasons (for example, expanded knowledge, societal awareness, and enhanced interpersonal relationships). Why do you think people decide to go to school? Use specific reasons and examples to support your answer.

There was a time studying was not a widespread activity among people. Actually we can say that it was a privileged possibility for specific individuals like noblemen. Beholden to new perspectives developed gradually in societies all around the world, we are witnessing a new juncture in almost every person 's life which is somehow associated with studying. There are many reasons for people to do so, deserving to count which I will point out some of them.

First of all, as I said this issue have become a part of human's life as an obligatory step of it. Simply, children are not permitted to choose whether they want to participate in these educational affairs or not. So they do what they are expected to do.

Secondly, in higher levels of education when we can find a more voluntary essence in studying, gaining knowledge comes to the first in counting the reasons. In fact, when people begin to select their optional ways of living, many a person prefer to expand their wisdom or at least make themselves adept in something in schools. This can help them to learn about a particular field they like it which can advocates their professional career generally. Evan they can develop their social network during their educating which increases the chance of flourishing as the scientific evidence shows. I have read somewhere that more than sixty percent of employees in US have applied their connections to gain their job.

Third refers to some unique reasons which really depend on social circumstances. For example, in my country, because of lacking job opportunities, youngsters pursue their studies to avoid facing the job market and buy some more time. Or even we all know people who attend to study just because of its social reflection on their character.

In conclusion, human society has its own complicated structures inside which have been developed by conditions and consequently they will induce other terms to those conditions in a reverse process. By which I mean people felt the need of educating in their social life and they have spread it. In return, this educating process affects how those people live in a way that people go to school relying different reasons from philo-wisdom to purposeless time spending.
