

Some people believe that nowadays we have too many choices

To what extent do you agree or disagree with this statement

With the advent of technology, people can have many options in their hands. I strongly believe that technology development and global trade enforce this notion.

With no doubts, the 21 century has witnessed a great improvement in technology that affects our lives; for example, IT companies released different online applications such amazon or walmart which help you order what you want including cloths, food, supermarket goods or etc and let you compare with other products . use of this applications can save your money , time and energy and finally give you the opportunity to find the best one.

Secondly, in comparison to the past with the expansion of world trade and import of various goods to the countries, competition and diversity of commodities have increased. Therefore, people can find their needs with the different qualities and competitive prices in the market.

Some people ignore the effect of technological advances and expansion of global trade on increasing their choices, but I strongly believe those said reason have influenced in our choices.
