School lessons are one of the most controversial issues in-all over the world. It is argued by some that most of school lessons are unnecessary and a waste of time, while some including me believe that school lessonsthey are very beneficial for pupils because these lessons s can improve their abilities.

According to the first group, school lessons are useless, but I believe children need to have knowledge about math, science, history and geography and the other lessons. Those mentioned courses help them to improve their analytical skills that lead to make-making a good decision in different situations, in addition, these courses and marks give teachers a chance to identify and grow the student's-students' talents in order to educate creative people.

In-on the another hand, school lessons are written by specialists who have spent their time on educational systems s, so they know the basic educational needs of students better than others and also they are more familiar with global criteria in each course. After passing these standard courses, students would understand what they want to do for their future and would achieve job satisfaction. In this situation, people will become more effective and happier and will make every effort to promote the society.

To conclude, opinions are varied on this issue. To me, it is quite clear that school lessons are very important in career development of each person and play a vital role in success of the community.
