

Popular events like the football World Cup and other international sporting occasions are essential in easing international tensions and releasing patriotic emotions in a safe way. To what extent do you agree or disagree with this opinion?

With the occurrence of humans' international activities and competitions among various civilizations, human beings' communications have become closer. The most exemplary of these activities is the sport event which brings about a fascinating feeling among nations. The Olympic and the World Cup events are both prominent popular occasions which are always noticed by ordinary people and governments. Although it has their advocates too, even people from third-world countries, it entails an expensive expenditure for every country which is not acceptable from the viewpoints of some sociologists.

There is a fact that team working and activities which are held in a group of people can inspire them and also create a friendly atmosphere between different countries. When some enormous occasions of sports begin, all attentions turn to them, especially, politicians. In spite of no matter what happens in the steady war zones in the world. Moreover, however, after prize-winning some medals or cups by athletes and ranking a place like first or second brings about a sense of patriotism which people from the same country feel.

Obviously, these kinds of occasions burden significant amounts of money on every country which perhaps could have been spent on indigent countries or for some scientific purposes that have more benefit for humans. On the other hand, events are not fair enough due to because there might not be an equal situation for individuals who have not access to the necessary facilities or professional coaches or equipped gyms for preparation.

In conclusion, there is doubt that the presence of sport events are a necessity in modern communities. However, the money which is involved, had better be invested in other activities. I believe that sports as an entertaining activity should be held worldwide, but there is a need to cut their budgets down.
