

At the present time, the population of some countries includes a relatively large numbers of young adults, compared with the number of older people.

Do the advantages of this situation outweigh the disadvantages?

~~By with the increasing increase in~~ the rate of birth ~~in~~ compared with this value in previous years or decades the concentration of population will switch ~~on to the~~ young aged group. ~~How much the more~~ ~~disturbed~~ this balance is ~~disturbed~~, the ~~more~~ disadvantages ~~there will be decrease~~, ~~however~~, there are ~~so many~~ profits in this case ~~thought too~~. ~~In~~ this essay ~~we~~ will discuss and evaluated both sides of this matter.

Firstly when the proportion of young adults rises the corresponding interests, habits, facilities appear more. for instance night clubs, gyms, ~~such a~~ flashy restaurants and cafés etc. Also more active interactions between peers are predicted and communications are ~~luckily lucky~~ to be successful in mutual generation. So that high harmony is expected. By far more important than any field, it would be beneficial on vocational grounds. Consequently, whilst this rate climbs, the GDP, gross domestic product, will soar to a new peak; indeed the young adults are particularly productive human resources for the government. This population is important politically as much as economically in order to guarantee the security of the county by providing military power.

On the other hand, ~~by contrast~~, as the population climbs in young adults, their demands and requirements have to be considered. in fact, the young population needs accommodation, appropriate occupational opportunity, academic training and adequate infrastructures. In addition, ~~when~~ the index ~~mentioned above which is called before when~~ comes in the term "per capita", it demonstrates a more clear and accurate image of the economic condition, which it means although the net amount of income scaled by increasing young population the GDP per capita plunged significantly.

Overall, this phenomenon has its own costs and benefits that the general strategy which governs the whole aspect of society is ~~able to affect impressive to~~ how much it would be beneficial ~~or not~~. Undoubtedly with an effective policy the young generation are able to gain the momentum of economy in any country.
