

In western countries, people spend a lot of money on their pets. They buy special food for their cats or dogs, buy them toys and often and often pay high fee for their medical treatment. Some people think this is a waste of money, and argue that pets are dirty and dangerous.

What are the advantages and disadvantages of having a pet? Do people spend too much money on pets? Give reason for your answer.

The intention of having a pet and owning one is a phenomenon which is globalized around the world. These days we could see that the attempt of owning a pet in western countries have has been increasing in comparison with previous decades.

Some groups are on-of the thought that, firstly, having a pet could rise-arouse a feeling of responsibility yies through the entire family because they should feed, clean or play with them so each person can take a role in order to pamper /care for their pets. Secondly, they subscribe to this view that animals like cat or dog are good companion for everyone especially for old people because they can be protective, fun and they will be there whenever you feel down also they are there for you to bring-upboost/elevate your mood.

Others believe that, these creatures are dirty and their existence in-at home could rise-bring severe consequences, in other words, they could be bothersome. Also they consider those people who have pets, have money to burn because they spend a great proportion of money for-on their food or medical treatment. however, all these matters s are compensable by visiting Vet-vets regularly and have vaccination on time also for their food, we can feed them by our leftovers beside_s their dry food which can mitigate all of their costs.

The main conclusion to be drawn is that, all pets are harmless creatures in the world as long as they've been pampered and treated properly.
