

In some areas of the US, a curfew is imposed, in which teenagers are not allowed to be out of doors after a particular time at night unless ~~you~~ they are accompanied by an adult.

What's your opinion about this?

America's some states are showing great concern about the teenager's presence outdoors in the specific night hours. In my opinion, although this issue may bother the target group, it ~~defiantly-~~ definitely guarantees their safety.

It is widely acknowledged that due to teenagers' weak mental and physical stamina, they are ~~really-extremely~~ vulnerable. Undoubtedly, criminals such as smugglers are always looking for victims to increase their ~~number~~ customers' number and these children are the best ~~lures~~ SOFT TARGET. In addition, they might be abused by sexual predators /offenders who are wandering in the streets. It is obvious that being involved in such a dreadful situation surely will ruin ~~adolescent's-~~ adolescents' innocent world.

However, children tend to spend time with their friends rather than the "boring" parents. Consequently, they do French leave /play truant. More over despite the tiredness, guardians have to cover the teenagers' ~~sportful-entertainmet needs~~ demands. This means that it is not both groups' favorite cup of tea.

To sum up, it is parents' obligation to accompany children and help them to ~~recreate~~ enjoy themselves. They must give teenagers the opportunity to learn and try new ~~activates~~ activities. Also children must tolerate this temporary curfew period, after being mature they can spend plenty of time outside whenever and where ever they want. As future legislators, they may force the police to protect children and elderly especially at nights.
