The reading states some evidence which indicates that there are some captivated behavior of elephant which are become kind of beliefs for humans. The lecturer, however, finds all the ideas dubious and casts the doubt on the reasons proposed by the reading passage.

First of all, the author argues that elephants are aware of their death times and they leave their herds and go to a place lonely to pass the later times of their lives. Conversely, the speaker brings up the fact that when these animals get old, their teeth will be softer and it is hard to chewing the herds, so they will search for the soft vegetables by themselves.

Secondly, the reading holds the view that elephants are kind of artists and they can paint by paintbrush in their trunk. Their paintings are on the caves' wall. On the contrary, the lecturer underlines the fact that elephant are so sensitive with their ears. Therefore, humans trained and motivated them with touching their ears to paint some features on the wall.

Finally, the reading passage asserts that all elephant afraid of mice. These animals live with other mammals which are wild and they have the same environment, but it was observed that elephant will leave their herds if they see mice near themselves. In comparison, the speaker dismisses this issue due to the fact that mice are unusual animal for them when they are living in the wild, but when they are in the zoo, they do not afraid of mice because they are familiar with them.

Do you agree or disagree with the following statement?

Movies and television have more negative effects than positive effects on the way young people behave.

Use specific reasons and examples to support your answer.

In modernized and common societies, movies and television programs have always been among concerns of humans' beings' lives. It is axiomatic that ~~the~~ most of the people, specifically the younger ones, are attracted to these entertainments and spend big part of their lives watching them. A plethora of people possess the conviction that the negative influences of these programs are more than the positive ones, whereas the others might hold exactly the opposite conviction. I firmly agree with the former idea due to its teaching bad behavior and creating some psychological disease in their life. In what follows, this essay is going to aptly delve into the explaining these outstanding reasons.

First of all, there are many films and televisions programs specially the comedy or action which show some unusual behavior that cause ~~to~~ children to learn them. These entertainments are not rare and make uptake about 40 percent of the programs. In my experience, when I was a child, there was a program which was about some rural people in the past and their behavior such as fighting and talking together was funny, but there were too terrible exactly for us. Since ~~in-at~~ that time, when I was at ~~the~~-school, all of my classmates were imitating the same activities in that film. Therefore, in my opinion this is one of the two bad effects of the television programs.

The second noteworthy point of the negative effect of films and television programs is about the movies which show ~~too~~-extremely terrifying scenes or awful ones. ~~In~~-from a psychological point of view, these scenes have an extremely negative stresses for children who ~~they~~-do not have the ability to manage their emotions and these terrible movies cause several illnesses for them. For instance, assume a child who is watching a body which is being bitten by some strange or terrifying dog. This view definitely might have a bad influence on the children's minds.

To put it ~~in~~-briefly, there are many films and television programs which not only are not helpful for the people and exactly the younger ones, but also are so harmful for their behaviors, emotions, and minds. It is advisable that some psychological and social studies should be under every movies and programs to enhance their quality for people. Furthermore, these kinds of films with those mentioned issues should have some warning at the beginning of film to alarm the parents to prevent their children ~~to~~-watching them.
