

Many people believe that government should spend more money on building new railways for high speed trains. However, other people think it would be more useful to ameliorate public transportation .

With a train system many problems will be solved. The first point is to offer a convenient, comfortable way to travel without hassles or delays. In addition, it has an efficient impact on reducing pollution . Not only does it provide s more efficient mobility for commuters but also it saves enormous energy. Last not but least it brings a safe, affordable transportation for everyone .

On the other hand , it is really worth ~~to spend~~ spending more budgets on improving public transportation . The first reason is overpopulation as the number of cars ~~is~~ dramatically increased d due to lack of efficient transportation . the second point is pollution. this matter leads to different kinds of human diseases . This method will reduce air pollution . indeed , it would be a decent help to decrease traffic congestion due to considerable decrease in the number of cars. so, people desire to use public transportation because significant improvement on them . Thus, it has a positive consequence on society. In spite of all the advantages , using public transportation can be an extremely time consuming process .

In conclusion , I personally believe that ~~more~~ bigger budgets should be spent on improving transportation . It is ~~the a major contribution~~ contributing factor ~~to in reduce~~ reducing air pollution and traffic jams .

Overall, this idea would be more helpful for people so ~~they~~ they can live safely and efficiently .