

Although more and more people read news on the internet, newspapers will remain the most important source of news.

To what extent do you agree or disagree?

Nowadays, the internet, this cutting-edge technology has become an integral part of our life which has great impacts on our life even in reading news. It has been argued that newspapers hold the most vital position among news readers which I ~~am~~ totally disagree with ~~this statement~~ and I am of the opinion that the internet is going to be ~~sole~~ the sole dominant source of providing news.

To start with, reading newspapers ~~s~~ is a force of habit for old generations but we have to take it into ~~the~~ consideration that the internet has more benefits than pitfalls and it is going to take over the printed newspapers. Having this cutting-edge technology in almost every corner of the world could give rise in-to popularity of this method, by which I mean, being convenient and accessible are the merits of this approach and nothing can beat the thrill of surfing online for news. Although these ~~electric~~ electronic devices are considered insecure tools, everyone could have access to ~~the~~ a huge storage of news by only a few clicks, where ~~ever~~ ever they are.

In addition to this, digitized news can be provided for free or at lower costs and you can subscribe ~~in-~~ to news websites for only 200,000 Rials s, whereas physical newspapers cost could rise because of paper prices s. Although newspapers still have their own fans, they have their own negative impacts on society and are not eco-friendly as well. ~~on-in~~ the other words, for producing daily news millions of sheets of papers should be utilized by which unfortunately the environment will face a disaster called ~~the~~ deforestation.

In conclusion, I believe in the not far away future, newspapers would become only a symbol of providing ~~a~~ the news for previous generations and we only see them in museums and also online news would take place as the most crucial /viable source of information.