

Some people believe that unpaid community service should be a compulsory part of high school programmes (for example working for a charity, improving the neighborhood or teaching sports to younger children).

To what extent do you agree or disagree?108

Working without payments for the students is a contentious issue in societies. To my mind though Internship in high school has a positive effects, it can not works as mandatory programme and it is better to advise the youth to do that and let them to decide weather they want to do it or not.

Studding Studying only in the classes and not have-havingnot any practical knowledge about the society, students are faced with problems after passing the high school. They have not enough knowledge about their abilities and are not familiars with the carriers-careers which they want to selects for themselves and community service help them make a difference and decipher which careers they are more or less well. For instance, some of the youth who selected engineering majors in colleges after 2 or 3 years changing or abolish their studding field because of less information about their fields. If they had find enough informations, they would have selected suitable major for their flutters.

Students who work for charities are more likely than those who do not work to feeling society-social situations such as orphans s children or people who live in poverty and it gives them a realistic view and helps their humanity aspect.

In spite of the above mentioned, unpaid works do not have profound effects in a mandatory program and-but rather may have maybe it has negative influences. For example in my country the governments forced d high school students to attend in unpaid courses in a-the summer, but where-assince some of them did not like practical action-work, it-they did not work and werehave-abolished.

To sum-up, I think it is better to encourage students to attend in-valuating-voluntary services and explain to-describe-for them the advantages of this-those activities, but mandatory internships can not be useful for students.
