

Many people believe that we should protect all wild animals while others believe we should just protect some of them.

Discuss both views and give your opinion.

While a lot of members of society hold the idea that we are responsible ~~to-for save-saving~~ all types of wild animals, others subscribe to the view that only a certain group ought to be protected. Though either of the mentioned viewpoints has its own merits and demerits, when it comes to this controversial notion, I hold we ~~would-had better~~ rather save all types of wild animals. In this short essay, I try to elaborate on my reasons regarding this heated debate.

We are living in a world where every single one of the living cells ~~have-has~~ the right to live and undoubtedly can benefit the other types in one way or another. Regrettably, we have harmed wild animals in different ways so that today we ~~do-are facing a situation where there are not have~~ a wide range of ~~endangered instinct~~ animals ~~anymore~~. No longer are ~~living the~~ Mammoth, ~~the~~ Gilani Salamander, and ~~the~~ Mazandaran tiger ~~living~~ in their habitats, and this certainly has an adverse impact on other species. The number of mosquitos, locusts, and pigs ~~who-which~~ were the main food of ~~distinct various~~ animals is a direct result of not protecting all types of wild animals.

Having said that, saving all types of wild animals is not as easy as it may appear. It demands a good deal of financial resources in addition to time and energy that not every society tolerates such a burden. Considering the widespread hunger or poverty across the globe we can accept this argument that human lives have to be taken into account before that of wild animals. Though hard to accept, I maintain that only when ~~could~~ we manage hunger across the globe ~~can~~ we ~~can~~ deal with the protection of wild animals. only when you live a healthy lifestyle can we be optimistic about the future

To cut a long story short, I must say that protection of all types of animals is arguably important, but after we could manage poverty and hunger globally. It is high time we finished this discrimination between rich and poor nations. Perhaps in the meanwhile protection of all types of wild animals should not ~~be~~ overlooked.
