

Today more and more people give money rather than gifts ~~in~~on special occasions. Why do you think it is? Do you think it is a positive or negative development?

Nowadays, people have tendency to give money instead of other types of present. That is why they do not know what kind of gifts ~~is~~are suitable and let other sides to buy what they are need. Also I personally approve of this method.

People select money as a gift because they cannot decide what kind of gifts are suitable. Individuals who want to buy presents are faced with a broad range of items such as clothes, electronic gadgets, flowers as well as books and they cannot decide which of them is better. Moreover, they have to spend time in markets or online- shopping websites while they are busy and do not have enough time. That is why people prefer to give money rather than buy special things.

Although sometimes individuals who are gifted cash think that it shows they are not as important to spend time for selecting gifts which can impressive them, it lets them ~~to~~ buy what things they need. For example, in my ~~countries~~country it is common to gift children presents in the New Year, and most of the children prefer to get money and collect all of them in order to buy what they need after the holiday. Furthermore, some gifts are not useful for the recipient~~other sides~~. Everybody ~~have~~has had ~~the~~an experience about getting a gift which ~~was~~are not useful ~~for themselves~~.

In conclusion, there is an increasing~~increase~~ in the number of people who have the tendency to gift cash because they cannot decide which kind of presents are useful for ~~themselves~~others and they do not have ~~not~~ enough time ~~in order~~ to looking for gifts in markets. I think it is a positive development which allows individuals to buy what they need.
