

Crime and murder are rooted in society. Some people are caught in different issues are due to various reasons. Studies show the most important factor is money. In modern societies, people that have an educational degree can earn money better and easier than other people. I think people can be educated for a brilliant life but how can it improve criminals' life especial when they are in prison?

The studies show people that become criminal are not educated and don't have any job. They can't work in any field. They want receive money with out any difficulty. But this issue is opposite low and social life. Some of these criminals are due to psychological problems such as self confidence. They can live in society as well as other people after being educated. But this requires money and plans first.

I believe that government can pay this money and bail them out in the prison. The first plan is when they are in the prison. This time is best time because they understand that they can't rapidly do this job for a long time. The Government can teach them and help them to learn a skill. With education they can have a job and earn money and this subject results in increasing their self-confidence. They can use this work force to teach others especially new criminals. I think other than the government, people can help educate criminals. They can pay money for this plan. When criminals are educated, they can work in different jobs alone with other people. With education they act and behave towards/treat others better.

to conclude, I believe that education can help people that are in prison. this issue needs money and is essential to learn them. The Government and other people can help them. Without an excellent plan and psychological education this challenge will remain forever.
