

Do you agree or disagree with the following statement?

Because the world is changing so quickly, people now are less happy or less satisfied with their lives than people were in the past.

Nowadays, due to the developing technology the human life changes day-to-day and people should attune themselves to the machinery world. One of the contentious issues in this field is whether the rapidity of changing affects the human lives and their satisfaction. Although some believe that ~~this-these~~ high-speed alterations, which are ubiquitous in the world, ~~leads~~ to the huge developments and progresses, which is undeniable, I am personally of the opinion that ~~it-they~~ influences our life negatively.

Firstly, in this day and age, the human knowledge advances drastically and the companies' products should be commensurate with the up-to-date- knowledge. So, they are vying with each other to produce state-of-the-art goods and grasp/dominate the market. These days, the markets are awash with innumerable products from numerous brands, which increases ~~the~~-consumerism in society. One of the results of this huge amount of products, which are updating every day with new ones, is the intense desire in consumers to buy more and more, pseudo needs. Unfortunately, the more you face different merchandises, the more you feel the ~~necessitate-necessity~~ of unusable commodities in your life. As a result, although people possess more advanced products compared to the last 20 years, they are never satisfied because there are always ~~the~~-better ones the next day.

Secondly, people should adapt themselves to this unpredictable and always changing world, if they wish to possess better positions. If you are working in a company as a computer engineer, it is necessary to update your information and learn the new software. As a teacher, you should know the new learning devices and exploit them to increase the quality of your teaching method and even as a secretary, you should elevate your computer skills, which are changing every second! Relentless learning without cease. And a quick question, have you any free time to see your friends or even your families? How much time do you spend for your social interactions, which plays the most important role in human happiness and life satisfaction? Unfortunately, nothing.

To sum up, I see the disadvantages of the swift change more than its merits. The decrease in personal relationship and the resulting depression, the variety of products and the resulting dissatisfaction and the increase in consumerism are just some of its drawbacks.
