

Some people think that parents should teach children how to be a good member of ~~the~~ society. However, ~~it is~~ believed that school is the place to learn this.

The manner of children is important for when they will grow up and enter ~~the~~ society. In my opinion, both parents and school play important roles in children's behavior and attitude.

First of all, parents have a major roles because when a baby is born at first by nature it is like ~~itstheir~~ parents, so they show the behavior of their parents. Therefore, parents have to be suitable models for their children. For instance, the parents should behave well ~~with-toward~~ other people, so their children would learn how they should behave ~~eiør~~.

On the other hand, school is the same as a second home for children and these times in this era teachers have very important roles. In school the behavior and attitude of children will be complete. Children play with their friends or do some activity in groups. Therefore, they learn how to work in a team and behave ~~with-toward~~ other people when they ~~will~~ become adult.

In conclusion, parents and school both are important for behavior of children and if they learn to behave well toward other people, they will be a good member of ~~the~~ society.
