

Part time work for high-schoolers

–
One of the most challenging dilemmas for parents is whether to give the chance of working in society to their children in their teenage years who are before they becoming an adult. As teenagers are extremely vulnerable, some people profoundly feel that working in-at this-these ages could exposedisposes this sensitive age group/our teenagers to perilous mental damages. Nevertheless, I personally believe that it is very astounding-rare/golden opportunity for adolescents to improve their abilities by working part-time jobs and finally it can prepare them to reach the zenith of their future profession. Following an appropriate job have-has some outstanding privileges which are indispensable for this-these ages.

The first privilege is having self-confidence which will be attained by working in this ages. It makes sense a person who believes in himself would be prosper in his future career. For instance, my cousin is an astonishing example for this. In his adolescent-adolescencehood he worked as a photographer assistant. Meanwhile, he was studying photography in school. Today he is adjunct professor of photography, with huge wealth and impressive prestige.

At the second, I think a teenager who closely is in touch with society can earn some essential skills for adult life. In another words/simply put, in adolescent ages with-by obtaining some crucial abilities like relating properly with people and regulating our relationship in overwhelming circumstances, we undoubtedly will experience a more healthy adult life. For example, a teenager who has been deceived by others, will be prepared in adult life to anticipate the danger and prevent it. Furthermore, we can instruct him to manage this damages and we can develop his skills to cope with the problems what he will face in his future. virgule eventually, I strongly believe that not only is doing a part-time job is-not hazardous but also it can vaccinate the teens' brain effectively from varies mental diseases in their adult life. It seems to be great if we encourage teenagers to learn how to protect themselves from dangers which they may face-to.face sth/be faced with sth

not only am I

not only can I