

The inventor and statesman Benjamin Franklin said, “Money never made a man happy yet, nor will it. There is nothing in its nature to produce happiness.” Do you agree with this statement? Why or why not? Use specific reasons and examples to support your position.

Thinking about money and whether it will bring us happiness or not, can be a challenging issue and there are various beliefs about this subject. In my view, money ~~cannot~~~~can not~~ be a reason for happiness by itself but many things will be available with it which will make us and other people glad; such as helping paupers, buying gifts, traveling, having more fun with family and friends. At least if you have depression and you can't do any of these things, you would be able to meet the therapist more and reach your wellbeing sooner.

Studies have shown that giving gifts to others is a great factor ~~to-in~~ becoming ~~inge~~ delighted even more than the times others give us gifts. So it can be the most important reason to show how ~~the~~ money will affect our happiness. The more money you have, the more gifts you are able to buy, ~~although~~. ~~Although~~ there are a lot of people that do not expend money for these things or their life is more solitary to have anyone to buy a gift for.

Further, all of us think about life and future a lot, for example about our career, our occupation, our children's future and many other things which make us ~~worry~~~~worried~~ or discontented. Consequently, we will be less ~~worry~~~~worried~~ about these ~~staff~~~~issues~~ if we have enough money. However, some people are used to spending immediately whatever they earn and it is not important for them how much their finance is.

I am relaxed

I am depressed

I am stressed

We are used to hearing lies

Thus, in conclusion, money can bring us happiness if we want. Life would be more fun and more easy as a result of having money, but there are plenty of people that ~~/who~~ ~~they~~ don't want or they don't know how to use money for this reason.

Do you not love music

Don't you love music

Can we not tell lies?
