

News stories on TV and in newspapers are very often accompanied by pictures. Some people say that these pictures are more effective than words.

What is your opinion about this?

Most of the times photos are used in news broadcasting because they believe this type of news would be much more effective than those without pictures. I am of the opinion that pictures play a major role in enhancing the rate of news effectiveness.

At first, we should notice that pictures have a mutual language ~~in~~ all over the world. Understanding written or vocal news is related to knowing that language and being aware of some backgrounds that will make the news conceivable for us. If we consider ~~of~~ all of the audiences have these conditions, they may sometimes not fully understand the purpose of the news yet. But pictures can clarify even the most complex texts.

Moreover, we should spend a particular time ~~to reading the~~ news or listening to the speaker, but image is able to ~~make a deep~~ communication a deep message to us in a second and help us to get the news instantly. So if we have the opportunity of following the news in our busy lives, it is more appropriate to understanding them as quickly as possible. It would assist ~~ance~~ us to perceive in perceiving more events while conserving the time that is so valuable to us.

After all, news agencies are sorely willing to influence the people with their news as ~~more-much~~ as possible. Because of this issue they hire skilled photographers to excel and to guarantee their popularity and their large readership-rank of their audiences.

To summarize, I literally believe ~~that~~ how much news affects us is extremely influenced by the attached/accompanying pictures. This is a very as-a vital issue for people and consequently for the news agencies as ~~a-picture-less-less~~ news would be meaning less-less or boring nowadays.
