

Some people think that parents should teach children how to be good members of society. Others, however, believe that school is the place to learn this.

Without any doubt all of us are aware of the importance of our children's attitude and effectiveness in society. As children grow up they will learn important facts through different experiences.

There are different ideas about this matter; some thinks that parents are responsible for in this issue. on the other hand, there are people who believe this, as one of the school's tasks.

Regarding this issue, both of the parents and school are responsible. Family as the first society that kids grow up in them is in duty to teach primary facts and manners and introduce kids to with the world. In addition, to them school as the next society that children will experience, includes more challenges for kids, makes made them to act more appropriately ly towards the others and make important decisions in complicated problems.

These two alongside each other have a key role in educating and should complete each other's task in best way. Children will learn to be helpful society members a good person in their life and try their best to improve for improves of their society. The fact that should not be forgotten is that parents and schools must have cooperation and coordination with each other and have a single a one goal.

For enjoying pleasant pleasure moments in our society and be sure of the future we should never forget that it is a duty for all of us, as a part of society in every level and place that we are it is our responsibility to not only be a good example for our kids, but also try our best to teach right things to them, who one day will be a role model for their next generation.