

some experts believe that it is better for children to begin learning a foreign language at primary school rather than secondary school.

Do the advantages of this outweigh the disadvantages?

It is widely accepted that learning a foreign language, especially the English language not only can make a fundamental contribution to everybody's education, but also provides s a suitable ground for communicating with others s one from different nationalities iesy. From my perspective, it is essential for children to learn other languages s at an early age, due to the fact that the internet has caused direct communication between all the people around the world.

Some people are against the view of studying a foreign language for children, they believe, it is too much pressure for a primary student. They have to learn a foreign language besides s their study courses in their school, consequently, z they can be demotivated in their education.

On the other hand, those who agree with the idea that children must start learning other languages s in at early childhood, tend to look at the bright side of this issue, because the fact that children's brain is more capable for learning, so it is easier for them at on that age.

Furthermore, children who start knowing a foreign language in their primary school, they know how to learn other languages s. A structure is formed in their mind, and it will help them in their future to learn more easily other cultures s or languages s rather than the other group who does not have this advantage.

In my opinion, the advantages of this matter outweigh its disadvantages, so I personally prefer to say that learning a foreign language in at early life not only can both help to broaden children's horizon, and but also it can improve their mental ability in future.
