

Nowadays in some countries the numbers of children aged 15 and younger are increasing. What are the current and future effects of ever increasing population?

Recently, the youth population has experienced a significant increase that can affect the community both positively as well as negatively, ~~the communities~~. The benefits and drawbacks of this trend are outlined below.

Some maintain that the more population growth, the more pressure on infrastructures such as roads and hospitals. Moreover, not very long ago people were guaranteed a job for life, but this is no longer the case, and people may be obliged to change their career more than once in their life time or even have no chance to find a decent job. Therefore, with the youth population growing, the unemployment rates ~~will~~ have been soaring recently which ~~that~~ leads to developing stress and tensions among the young generations.

On the other hand, experts cite the youth power as the major element for reaching a prosperous community. Infusion of the youth spirit in society provides a breeding ground for more perseverance and accordingly more development in economic and technological terms. The young people especially those aged 15 and younger are more likely to be educated in order to enhance their abilities. Not only does education hone their skills and equip them for the future, but also gives rises to improving the country.

In my opinion, authorities should adopt some practical plans such that the relative balance between the population of youth and that of adults ~~are~~ is struck, namely controlling the rate of birth breeding. Indeed, the aging population is as equally dangerous as a haphazard soaring one population irregularly.

In sum, society needs the youth to improve provided that they are equipped with ~~by~~ education and also the opportunities and facilities keep pace with the rate of the population growth.
