

Successful sports professionals can earn a great deal more money than people in other important professions. Some people think this is fully justified while others think it is unfair.

Discuss both of these views and give your own opinion.

Almost, every day, we read about the high payment of sports professionals in the newspapers. Moreover, this issue has become a limelight inasmuch as they receive an enormous amount of money in comparison with the other experts in different fields. Equally importantly, some might argue that it is unfair, while others may believe that it is their right to have a huge salaries. Therefore, I would like to discuss both views in this essay.

It is an undeniable fact that, athletes dedicate their time and energy to work ~~industriously flat out~~ and practice every day. They have to follow a hard schedule to be one of the best in their ~~ariaarea~~. For example, professional athletes have to control and reduce their entertainment such as eating, drinking, going to parties and having fun like normal/ordinary people. To put this issue in perspective, they have to allocate their whole life ~~on to~~ their profession and work hard, otherwise, they will fall just a short of being in ~~the a~~ first place. To some extent, sport is a part of ~~the~~ entertainment industry and people spend a great deal of money on ~~it~~, so it is absolutely fair to reward ~~sportspeople/~~them with high payment.

On the other hand, there is a strong counter-argument against this view that says- "it is not acceptable to give a considerable amount of money to athletes, when the top surgeons or research scientists are paid less". From my point of view, even though some believe that these super salaries are not justified, ~~but~~ for sport stars those who work hard in order to get results and even ~~tolerate/endure/sufferpersist~~ a pain which are ~~a~~ testaments to sport advancement, ~~supper-lavish~~ payment is reasonable. Also, the entertainment industry makes ~~s~~ a great deal ~~of~~ money with sports matches and therefore, they give a small part of it to athletes.

In conclusion, it is evident that investors earn an enormous amount of money from sport competitions, hence the high salaries of sport stars. On the flipside, others may opine that other experts should earn ~~the~~ same amount, so it is not a convincing argument that athletes receive this money as if they ~~had~~ worked harder than others.
